CLASS OFFICERS

A class, like any other group, depends on its leaders. The Class of 1963 has been fortunate in having able and conscientious people guiding it.

LEFT: T. Frado, Boy Councilor; J. Flannery, Treasurer; A. Shea, President; C. Costa, Vice-President; M. Rego, Secretary; J. Cain, Girl Councilor.

ABOVE: J. Tracy, President; Mr. Mahoney, Advisor; C. Quinn, Secretary; D. Wisniewski, Vice-President; G. More, Treasurer.

CLASS ADVISOR

Miss Mason

When the classical civilizations of Athens and Rome flourished, their educational systems turned out young people as fine as any in history. Those systems were an excellent combination of moral and esthetic training, both physically and mentally. Though exact goals for education were argued, all agreed in attaching the highest importance to education. Somerset, though not comparable to ancient Athens and Rome in worldly historical significance and achievement, continually strives for the same goals and sends forth year after year students who have attained high intellectual, physical, and social achievements.

Class

In our freshman year leadership was provided by James Sisson, President; Janice Cain, Vice-President; Mary Rego, Secretary; and William Aguiar, Treasurer. In football, Somerset took the Tri-County championship. The baseball team was first in the Narry League, as was the track team, while Somerset enjoyed a very successful basketball season.

As sophomores we were led by George Antone, President; Janice Cain, Vice-President; Susan Zacamy, Secretary; John Faria, Treasurer; James Flannery, Boy Councilor; and Marie Cabral, Girl Councilor. Good seasons were realized in football and baseball, while the basketball and track teams took league championships.

Our third year at Somerset was marked by a romantic "Garden of Dreams," the Junior-Senior Prom. Also in this year George Antone, Richard Peirce, and Geraldine Fish were selected for Boys' State and Girls' State. Another event of importance was the receiving of class rings.

History

The junior class officers were George Antone, President; Carol Costa, Vice-President; Marcia Lees, Secretary; Thomas Frado, Treasurer; Susan Zacamy, Girl Councilor; and Michael Silvia, Boy Councilor. The sports picture was highlighted by the baseball team's Narry League championship, with successful track and basketball seasons.

The most eventful year of all, our senior year, saw the class led by Alan Shea, President; Carol Costa, Vice-President; Mary Rego, Secretary; James Flannery, Treasurer; Janice Cain, Girl Councilor; and Thomas Frado, Boy Councilor. Winning seasons were enjoyed in all sports, including the 24-7 win over Case on Thanksgiving Day. As had been the case for the previous years, the girls' sports teams turned in excellent championship records.

Exchanging of pictures, preparations for the prom and banquet, applications for college, and graduation provided the high points of the year. Among numerous awards given seniors were the Betty Crocker award to Vivian Torres, the Jewish-American War Veterans' Citizenship award to Richard Peirce, and finalist rating for John Faria in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

These were important, rewarding years. If our modern civilization is to reach greater heights in humanitarian as well as scientific areas, it must rely a great deal on the high school years and their effects. Perhaps now we, the citizens of today, can proceed from knowledge to wisdom as a result of the excellent foundations we receive in education.

We, the Class of 1963, leave to Somerset High School our deepest appreciation and gratitude, and the assurance that our four rewarding years at Somerset will never be forgotten.

We, Loretta Silvia and John Faria, leave a good deal of work for next year's yearbook editors.

I, Bill Ashton, leave my shortness to anyone who wants it.

I, Tony Botelho, leave my M.D. tools to any Junior boy who wants them.

I, Mary A. Tappen, leave to all newcomers the pleasure of meeting all the wonderful teachers and students at Somerset High.

We, Pat, Mary, Sally, Colleen, Marty, and Cheryl, leave our p.j. parties to any underclassmen who can stay up late.

I, Paul Lanneville, leave with great vigor.

I, Thomas Martone, leave my parking place to anyone who gets there early enough.

We, Margery Stone and Jeanne LaLiberte, leave for the wide-open spaces.

I, Judy McFarlin, leave getting up on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 6:30 a.m. for mixed chorus rehearsals.

I, Ray Gaudreau, leave a brand-new, unused geometry book to Mr. A. Zagorsky.

I, William Leite, leave one defeated guidance counselor.

I, Barbara DiGangi, leave Mr. White with a headache.

I, Charles Fortin, leave my ability of getting out of seventh period.

I, Roger Thibault, leave all my books to the boys of the South End.

We, Carol Costa and Ann Cunha, sentimentally leave dear Auntie Ruth's office.

I, Paul Rebello, leave the school in peace for the first time since I entered it in 1957.

I, Mary Rego, leave my bookkeeping ability to any Junior who can't count to ten.

I, Paulette Chagnon, leave my front-row seat in Mr. Donahue's American History class to any enterprising person who wishes to pay attention.

I, Donna Dyson, leave my gym locker to any Junior girl who likes gym.

I, Ferris Ganem, leave the right for my brother John to call himself a Senior next year.

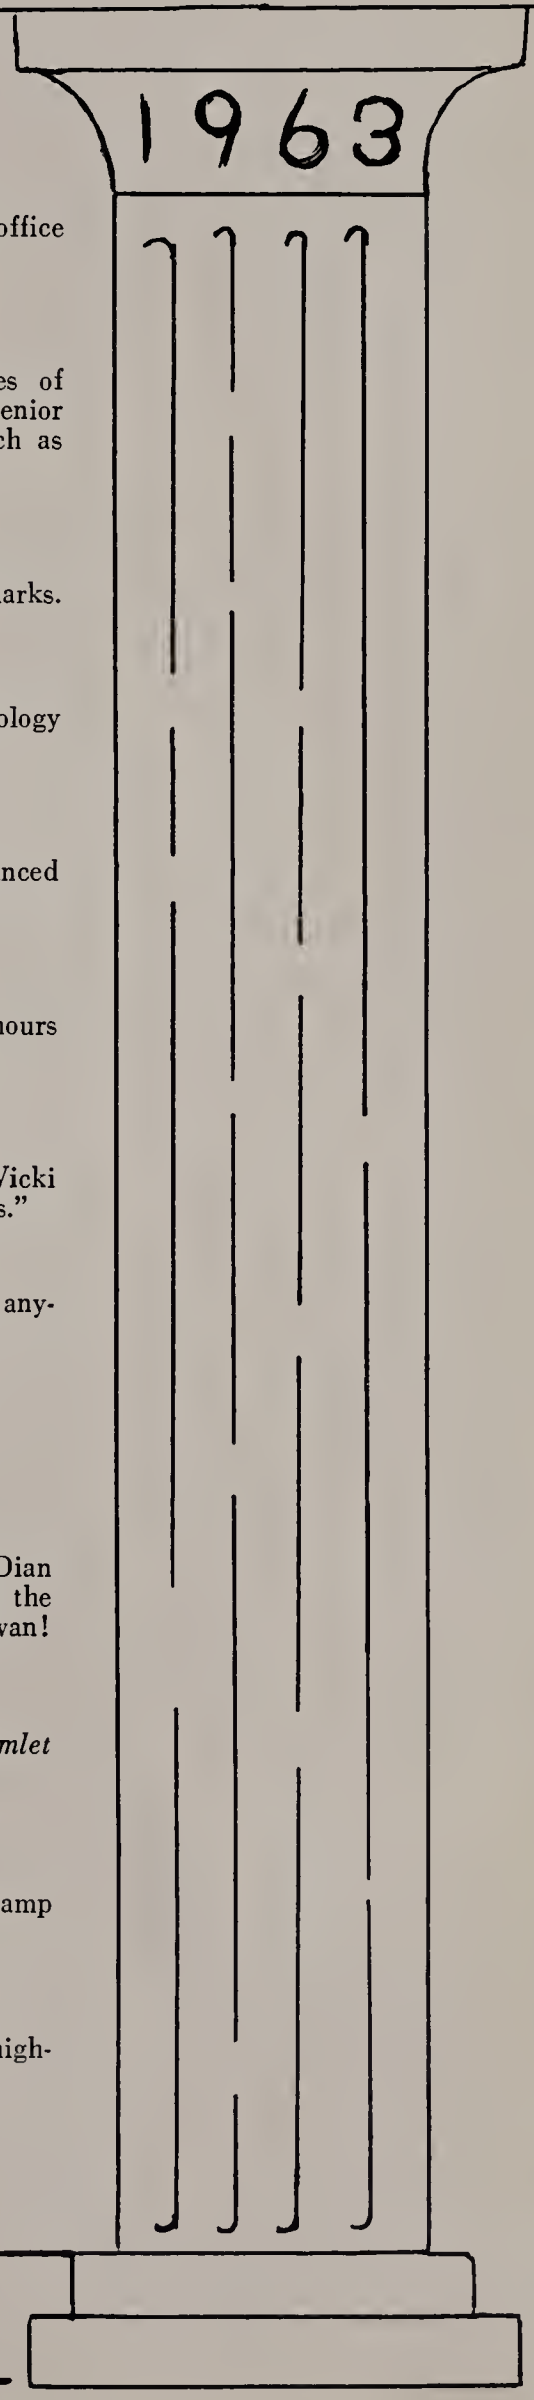
I, George Antone, leave happily for the Air Force in September.

We, S. Dumais, J. Eisenhardt, and B. DiGangi, left for one day and suffered six hours.

We, D. Murphy and K. Johnson, do leave Mr. Simpson all frustrated.

I, Janice Cain, leave my brother Donald to Mr. Malloy.

Will



I, George Grusmark, leave S.H.S. to my sisters, hoping they will make better use of it than I.

I, Glenn More, leave the S.A.A. Treasurer's book with regret.

I, Jim Flannery, leave the physics lab intact.

I, Patrick Hunt, leave behind my baseball glove and spikes to any future shortstop wanting to take the job.

I, Karen King, leave my front seat in Mr. Sullivan's English class. You'll learn to love it!

I, Alan Shea, leave a can of deodorizing spray for the person who gets my gym locker next year.

I, John Tracy, leave to some deserving Junior the dubious distinction of having Mr. W. Sullivan for English two years in succession.

We, Terry Couto and Gerry Simons, leave a year's supply of used chewing gum in Mr Smietanna's basket.

I, Pamela Gray, leave Mr. Mahoney all the unsold S.H.S. Sweatshirts.

We, Steve Williams, Mike Silvia, and Paul Miguel, leave to join the boys at Kelly's Corner.

I, William Pappas, leave my locker, number 19, at the end of the alcove. The only catch is to watch out for the very hot radiator next to it—it burns!

I, Robert Valerio, leave a cavity in this school to be filled only by an ambitious, earnest, good looking, and mirthful Junior.

I, John Arruda, leave my audio-visual office duty to a future projectionist.

I, Karen Soja, leave my fond memories of S.H.S. to those who may enter in their Senior year as I have and will enjoy it as much as I have.

I, Ronnie Bisaillon, leave all my good marks.

I, Vivian Torres, leave my brain to biology for examination.

I, Lucille Vermette, leave all my unbalanced books to the future bookkeepers.

I, Martha Corey, leave all my made-up hours to whoever has to make up time.

We, Ellen Buckley, Nancy Lane, and Vicki Gell, leave in one of "Buckleys bombers."

I, Geraldine Fish, leave my last name to anyone who thinks his is worse.

I, Judy Cabral, just plain leave.

We, Sue Zacamy, Andrea DiGiammo, Dian Hathaway, and Marcia Lees, sadly leave the booth at the Gondola to Mr. William Sullivan!

I, Russell Dionne, leave Macbeth and Hamlet to next year's lucky Seniors.

I, Hank Seaman, leave my Ted William's Camp Knickers to Jim Goodwin.

I, Dennis Smith, leave my position in the high-jump to Dave Kneckt.

THE COACHES

The football team, under Coach Sullivan, had an exciting, successful campaign. With a record of six wins, one loss, and two ties, Somerset finished in a tie for second in the Tri-County League. The big game, of course, was the Thanksgiving classic with Case, which Somerset won 24-7.

The team featured a very strong defensive unit. The offense was powerful, led by a backfield composed of seniors Joe Phillips, the league's leading scorer, Bill Oliveira, and quarterback George Antone and junior Gerry Nordeste. However, it was the united effort of the team as a whole that made this championship quality possible for Somerset football once again.

Last-minute advice.

Coach Tom Burns made a successful debut at the helm of the Raiders' quintet. The team finished fourth in the Narry League with a 9-7 record, a commendable record considering the team's members were mostly underclassmen.

Only two seniors, George Antone and Mal Wood, played for the Blue Raiders. George Antone, the field general and playmaker on the squad, often displayed his aggressiveness and expert ballhandling by a deadly set shot from the top of the key. When rebounds were needed, it was hustling Mal Wood who was usually in there scrapping for the ball to make many of those important points from offensive rebounds.

Strongly supporting these seniors were such worthy players as Andy Gateriewictz, one of the top league scorers, and Gerry Nordeste, the rugged rebounder who constantly scored on his drives. Pivotman Jim Goodwin effectively executed deceptive fakes that enabled him to split the twines from under the backboard.

Backing these boys next season will be some seasoned veterans such as Bruce Cranshaw, Tom Davenport, Tony DeMello, Bill Bogle, and Bob Pappas.

Baseball

In his freshman year as head coach, Mr. James Sullivan steered the Blue Raiders to the Narry League Championship. The diamond men compiled a successful 13-3 record. Mr. Robert Souza, who was an outstanding second baseman for the Raiders, coached the Junior Varsity to a victorious season.

This year's squad will be a well-balanced team as a number of experienced members will return. Captain Hank Seamen heads up a talented mound corps. Hank is noted throughout the league for his burning fastball. Slick-fielding Pat Hunt can capture any ball that is hit to him at his shortstop position. Pat was among the Narry leaders in doubles during the previous campaign. In the outfield a dangerous ball hawk will be found in the person of George Antone. This player has the exceptional ability to produce the clutch hit. Hustle and desire is the trademark of Bill Alexander. Though he sees little action, Bill is the most aggressive man in the outfield when he plays. This will be the final year for these four boys, but a few skillful underclassmen will aid future Raider teams.

Jim Goodwin, one of the most successful pitchers, can be depended upon to win his share of games. Boys such as Andy Gateriewictz, Bruce Cranshaw, Gerry Nordeste, Barry McGee, and Eugene Lavoie will be swinging the big bats for the Raiders. The future combination of seasoned veterans and promising rookies should bring the Raiders an impressive campaign.

Track

Seasoned veterans provided the punch that was necessary for a victorious campaign this past season. The cindermen were under the capable leadership of Captain Jim Waring.

The Blue Raiders had a number of other talented senior speedsters. Boys such as Bill Shaughnessey (220 and relay), Dick Tinsley (880 and relay), Al Shea (440 and relay), George Santerre (100 and relay), and Keith Marsden (880) did much to make possible Somerset's impressive record. Field participants Paul Lanneville, Dennis Smith, Walter Armburg, and Norbert Levesque also tallied their share of points.
